Herman Yellow Old Woman

Herman Yellow Old Woman's instrumental role in championing the rights of Indigenous communities to represent themselves and have a voice in creating and shaping museum spaces has left an indelible mark on the museum sector, not only in Alberta, but nationally and internationally. A key member of the committee behind Glenbow's Nitsitapiisinni Gallery, created to reflect the Blackfoot worldview, and a tireless advocate in the fight for the repatriation of Chief Crowfoot's regalia from the Royal Albert Memorial Museum in Exeter, UK, his work represents the epitome of the reconciliation and healing museums are now striving for. His contributions are a gift to future generations, for the Blackfoot, and for museum professionals navigating the changing role of museums in society and the necessary work of reconciliation.

Herman Yellow Old Woman is presented with the 2020 Lieutenant Governor's Award.
